Telcos get cash flow boost as Cabinet clears relief package

The government said guidelines regarding this would be finalised by the finance ministry. Among the long-term measures, the one which would be most welcomed by the industry, would be the redefinition of AGR in a manner which clearly stipulates what revenues will go towards its calculation.

to pay the licence fee and SUC only on telecom revenues and not on non-telecom revenues like interest, dividends, capital gains, etc. However, since this will also be from a prospective date, it will not bring any immediate relief to the operators.

Billions blown as Macau casino investors fold amid gambling review

At a news briefing on Tuesday, Lei detailed nine areas for the consultation, such as the number of licenses, better regulation and employee welfare, as well as having government representatives to supervise daily casino operations.

relations, leaving some investors fearing an edge for domestic players over US-based casino operators. The government has not singled out any US players, but companies have moved to beef up the presence of Chinese or local executives as their position themselves more as Macau operators than foreign one.
